DR. E. G. GOWANS EASILY WINS OUT

He Is Again Named as Judge of Salt Lake County Juvenile Court.

MAJOR M. A. BREEDEN GETS SECRETARYSHIP

This Office. It Is Said, Is Really Better Than the Judgeship.

The juvenile court commission, composed of Gov. Spry, State Superintendent of Schools Nelson and Attorney-General Barnes, met Tuesday afternoon. and after much travail turned out its first batch of appointments. Here they Msj. M. A. Breeden, secretary of the commission.

Dr. E. G. Gowans, judge of Salt Lake county. H. A. Pedersen of Logan, judge of the first judicial district.

A. A. Noon of Provo, judge of the fourth indicial district.

No salaries were fixed. These will probably be determined upon at auother meeting, to be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. It is understood, however, that Judge Gowans and Secre-tary Breeden will receive $1800 each a year, and Judge Noon and Judge Pedersen, $750 each. The selection of Judge Noon and Judge Pedersen are reappointments. There was a sharp contest between Judge Gowans and Maj. Breeden for the judgeship, and it was an agreeable surprise to the former's many friends the indgeship, and it was an agreeable surprise to the former's many friends that he wen out. The secretaryship of the commission is really a better job, though, for the secretary, hesides getting the same salary, will receive traveling expenses, and is clothed with authority over all the courts of the state. The new law constitutes the secretary a general adviser to all the juvenile courts of the state.

Under the old law the secretaryship of a "flunkey," with a whole lot of labor entailed without any salary to speak of.

Jurisdiction Extended

The juvenile courts, under the law, are given much greater jurisdic-tion, having the power to hold jury trials in cases of adult delinquency. which requires some knowledge of the rules of practice and procedure in the district courts, and for this reason May Breeden, formerly attorney general of the state, was considered a formidable candidate for the judgeship, but Dr. Gowans has practically given up medi-cine and devoted himself to the study of law, and as soon as he is qualified, which will be soon, will be admitted to the bar of the state.

Besides determining salaries at the meeting Thursday morning the commismeeting Thursday morning the commission will also probably appoint a judge for the second judicial district, with headquarters at Ogden. There are two applicants. Volney C. Gunnell of Ogden, the incumbent, and A. B. Patton, but it is believed that Judge Gunnell will be reappointed. The salary of this judge will probably be fixed at $1000. judge will probably be fixed at $1200

The commission also has to appoint the commission also has to appoint the probation officers, upon the recom-mendation of the judges of the respec-tive districts, and this matter likely will be dealt with Thursday morning.

T. L. Irvine, the former deputy sheriff whom the county commissioners refused to confirm as a deputy county clerk for personal reasons, was selected for clerk of the juvenile court of this county by County Clerk Witcher Tuesday morning. Irvine's salary, like the day morning. Irvine's salary, like that of the other appointments, is to be determined by the commission.

SALOON MEN OBJECT TO CLOSING AT MIDNIGHT

The saloon men, it is understood, are opposed to the liquor ordinance passed by the city council Monday night, in that they do not like to close up on week days as early as the measure re-quires—midnight—and are selecting a ommittee to voice their protest.

The committee, it is understood, will a made up of the most influential saloon men in the city, with possibly a sprinkling of bartenders, some of whom fear that they will lose their jobs through early closing, and will wait on the mayor in a day or so and appeal to him to try to get the ordinance changed in this regard, so that it will require closing at 1 o'clock in the morn-ing instead of at midnight.

KNOTTY TANGLE IN DAMAGES ARE ASKED LAUNDRY'S AFFAIRS

Third District Court Is Called Upon by Corporation to Straighten Out Affairs.

ILLEGAL STOCK ISSUE ALLEGED IN COMPLAINT

As Result, It Is Set Out That Concern's Business Is Being Hampered.

There is a knotty little tangle in the stock of the Model Steam laundry that the laundry has carried to the third district court to be unraveled. While the company is capitalized for only $60,000, in as many one-dollar shares, there is outstanding 79,998 apparently valid shares of stock purporting to be worth $1 cach, it is alleged.

The suit in the district court is directed against E. B. Moore and Frank J. Gustin, and George Williams and L. A. Marks, a co-partnership under the name of Williams & Marks, and Jesse T. Badger and Charles Le Blonde, and Charles Pratt and E. H. McBeth, a co-partnership under the name of Pratt & McBeth, to compel them to appear in court and establish their rights, whatever they may be, in the best present of the correction and to have business of the corporation, and to have cancelled two certificates of stock in the name of Moore and another in the name

These certificates are alleged to have been illegally issued. They are held now, it is set out, by Pratt & McBeth as security of an indebtedness of Moore and Gustin. The certificates in Moore's name are for 5000 shares each, and the one in Gustin's name for 3333 shares.

Said to Be Spurious.

Many other certificates of stock, further alleged, are spurious and in onfliet with the genuine stock, which s likely to seriously hamper the business of the laundry, if not bring it to a standstill. The 79,998 shares of out-standing stock, it is set out, are on their face solid, and the holders thereofare claiming the right to participate in the management of the business, which can not be rightfully granted to all of them, as the capitalization is only $60,000 in one-dollar shares. Efforts covering several months have been made to ascertain the legal stockholders of the concern, but have proved futile, and the company has found it have proved necessary to appeal to the courts to see if the problem can be solved, as the conflicting claims have cast a cloud on the title of all stock, which the plain-the fittle of all stock, which the plaintiff wants cleared away, it is set out.

The company originally incorporated under the name of Taylor's steam laundry in April of 1904, with a capitalization of $20,000, divided into as many shares valued at $1 ench. In June of 1905 the name was changed to the Model Steam laundry and Move to the Model Steam laundry, and May 6, 1906, the capitalization was increased from $20,000 to $60,000 by amended articles of incorporation adopted.

with two leather grips in his hand astride a window sill of the Clayton store, which is immediately against her porch. Thinking he was an electrician, she asked him what he was doing. Without uttering a word the man disappeared into the store. Mrs. King called to the bartender of the Council saloon below and asked him to call a policeman. Time passed, and no policeman was notified. Mrs. King then telephoned the police station. Chief of Detectives Sheets and a number of patrolmen immediately responded to the call.

Upon investigation it was found that the man who had been in the store had escaped. Three rear windows were open and it was through one of these that the robber must have made his get-away. Against the second-story window was a piano, the top of which was scratched and showed signs of having been walked upon. As the thief had taken fright at Mrs. King, he had dropped the leather cases on the back porch of the rooming house. The cases contained two cornets. Upon the piano were two trombones, which the robber had evidently placed there in preparation to carrying them away. The cash register had been carried from its place on the front counter to the rear of the store and smashed open. Its contents, however, had been removed when the store was closed for the day. As far as the proprietors of the store know, nothing was carried away.

The thief left no clue behind, but it reached important developments are promised.

It is understood that the defendants have retained an array of legal talent to fight their case and that there is absolutely no likelihood of a compromise being reached in the matter. At the Monday session of the United States court, Judge Marshall set the case for trial on May 10. There is a possibility that he may then be in Oklahoma, and therefore unable to hear the case. Should he be away, Judge Page Morris of Minnesota will preside. Should the defendants be found guilty the penalty that can be imposed is a prison sentence of any length up to five years, upon each individual, or a fine not to exceed $10,000 for each, or both fine and imprisonment, as the court may the city cemetery. Whiskey Is Stolen. Whiskey Is Stolen.

During Monday night the saloon at 34s West South Temple street was entered by thleves and flve bottles of whiskey were stolen. The thieves entered the saloon through a rear door. They took the cash register to the yard in the rear of the saloon and broke it open. It contained no money. The matter was reported to the police Tuesday morning, who are working upon the case.
